The Keweenaw people are not making much money in the buying and selling of cattle judging from a few deals made recently in that vicinity. Patrick Hardin selling to an eastern man about 200 head of black moolie cattle which brought him about $14,000. And Glenn Hardin sold to Roy Peveler 55 head of yearlings at $40 and $60 per head.

The school at Knowles which should have started the 6th of this month but was delayed on account of the Principal not having arrived will open next Monday Sept. 20. Two teachers will be employed, a lady and gentleman but we failed to get their names.

The opening of school here has also increased the number of Sunday School scholars, as there were 70 enrolled and some visitors at the Union Sunday School at the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning. There was also a good attendance at the League Sunday afternoon and an interesting subject was discussed.

Miss Francis Cleghorn has returned home from a month or so visit to her sister, Mrs. T. D. Boyd of Midway.

Messrs. W. G. Woerner, H. V. Wright, Billie O'Neal, Bert Ancell, D. H. Coleman, and O. H. Greene all of Knowles, N. M. were in Lovington Tuesday of this week. Messrs. Coleman and Greene calling at the Leader office. They reported a need of rain just then in their vicinity although everything was in fine shape. Cattle fat and crops generally good. A nice rain had fallen the night before between there and the Highlonesome community.

Mrs. Carrico of Highlonesome has been spending the past week visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Price of this place.

Jim Blackwell of Knowles sold his entire bunch of stock horses to an eastern party. Considerations $75.00 per head.

Mrs. Mattie Blackwell sold her cattle to the same party at $77.50 for cows and calves, and $50.00 for dry stuff.

Mood Smith who came down from Tatum Monday to be at the Methodist Conference at Lovington Tuesday evening, returned home Thursday.

Miss Dora Thomas intends opening her music room at Mrs. Tom Bingham's next Monday morning. Miss Thomas is a thorough musician and has taught here before and no doubt her number of pupils will be increased this term.

Mrs. E. D. Oliver brought some sweet potatoes to town Wednesday for sale one of which weighed 3 3/4 lbs.

W. N. Benson of Midway, N. M. brought some onions to Lovington Wednesday, one of which was said to have weighed 4 lbs., can any one beat that? I rather think we had our fair too soon. It seems that the best of truck of all kinds is just beginning to show up.

M. E. Sewalt sold to G. W. Gow an of this place, Wednesday, 400 head of ewe lambs at $3.75 per head. Also on same day he and another party sold to a Carlsbad man about 1000 head of old ewes $3.00 per head. Both sales for Oct. 1st, delivery.

A. J. Crawford from Eaves Bros. ranch was in town Thursday.

Dr. Bryan and family returned this week from a trip to Albuquerque and Santa Fe, N. M. We learn he had quite an experience in autoing the ups and downs of the mountainous country. But his trouble was mostly ups, at one time having to get some Mexicans to pull his machine to the top of a long slope.

A. Jackson purchased a lot of J. W. Caudill south of the Thompson and Barr Auto Shop, on which he intends building an above building.

Lee Haywood made a trip to Roswell, Thursday.

Don't fail to read the ads this week.

NOTICE

The Lovington as well as the Knowles people were shocked when they learned of the sudden and sad death of Mrs. M. T. Lowery, step-mother to C. J. Lowery living between Lovington and Knowles, early Wednesday morning of last week.

It seems that her husband was away on a trip and had been for some time, and only she and her little son of barely four years of age, were at home.

Mrs. Lowery was very poorly with tuberculosis although she was able to be about, and only the Saturday before was in Lovington doing some shopping. However this morning she had written a note to a neighbor Mrs. Byrd, living about one and one fourth miles down the line fence, telling her she was not feeling well and asking her to come up, and sent it by her little son. But Mrs. Byrd being sick herself answered the note saying she could not come. The little fellow returned to his mother with the note but upon his arrival what should he find but his mother prostrate in the cow pen where she had fallen and died supposedly while attempting to do the morning's milking. The little fellow thus shocked returned to Mrs. Byrd's where he told her the sad story. Mr. Byrd being away from the house at the time returned and when told about the circumstances got on his horse and rode by for Mr. Nat Roberts and together with some other of the neighbors phoned for a physician and an inquest was held.

But to think of the little hero of barely four years of age making the three and three-fourth mile trip in one morning and having the knowledge to do as he did do.

The burial took place in the Lovington cemetery at 2:30 p.m. Rev. W. M. Beauchamp Methodist pastor of this place preaching the services. Several were in attendance from Knowles or that community, and a few from Lovington. The burial was so early in the afternoon that but few knew when it was to take place.

Mr. Lowery, husband of the deceased, is a well-to-do stockman having come to their present home about a year ago so we learn.

NOTICE

Both the farmers and the stockmen on the Big Horn range are contemplating the advantages of growing better beef and dairy cattle, sheep, hogs, and poultry. As prices are low, the well bred animals are a much better return than the scrub grows at practically the same cost.

C. O. Keiser of Canyon, Texas sold a hundred range cows at $125.00 a head this spring and the purchaser considered this a bargain. These cows had cost little more to raise than cows that sold for less than half the money.

Owing to this increased interest in better cattle, sheep, hogs, horses, and poultry, the Live Stock and Products Exposition, to be held in Roswell-New Mexico Oct. 4th to 9th, is assembling the largest and best exhibit of registered beef and dairy cattle, sheep, hogs, horses, and poultry ever shown in New Mexico or the Southwest.

Last year this exposition had an extra fine stock exhibit, but it will be much greater this year.

This feature of the Exposition is worth going to see for itself.

Yet there will be plenty of other instructive features in the way of products of the soil, machinery, school, exhibit, art department, and other things that indicate the possibilities of this country.

There will be enough amusement night and day, to make the stay at the fair enjoyable.

But as this is essentially a stock growing and stock feeding country, the stock department must appeal strongly to every progressive farmer and stock grower.
